REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACIOUS MAJESTY,

1. We, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland, appointed under an Act passed in the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for the more effectual Application of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland," humbly beg leave to submit to your Majesty this our Twenty-eighth Annual Report.

2. We beg to point with satisfaction to the continued facilities afforded to us in the discharge of our public duties by many of the provisions in the "Charitable Donations and Bequests Act (Ireland), 1871," and in particular by that which reduced the number required for our quorum from five to three. Since the date of our last Report to your Majesty the number of meetings summoned has been 32; of these 4 only have been ineffective for want of a sufficient attendance. A reference to our former Reports for a series of years will show that when the presence of five Commissioners was requisite, the proportion of abortive meetings was much larger, having generally been at least one-third.

3. Since the date of our last Report, besides providing for the regular issue of the sums payable to the various Charities under our control, we have, at our meetings made 262 decisions or orders for the protection or regulation of Charities, in the various cases brought before us.

4. Though the questions brought before us are for the most part of a legal character, and frequently involve both the investigation and the preparation of legal documents, we continue to be able to make such arrangements for its transaction that the portion of our Solicitor's costs for the past year not otherwise defrayed, and which we have to call on the Treasury to discharge, amounts only to £17 15s. 9d.

5. We continue to require from Executors a strict compliance with the provisions of the "Charitable Donations and Bequests Act (Ireland), 1871," which directs all Charitable Bequests to be published in the localities where they are intended to be applied. The experience of each year more and more convinces us of the importance of publication as a security that the intentions of the Testators will not be frustrated. The "Charitable Donations and Bequests Act (Ireland), 1871," imposed on Executors the additional obligation of forwarding to us copies of the newspapers in which the advertisements have appeared. This is a further security, as it compels Executors to furnish directly to us evidence that they have complied with the law as to publication, and we have now registered in our department upwards of 1,500 such advertisements, which are further useful as facilitating searches for Charitable Bequests.

6. The Act of 1871 also invested us with a discretion to exempt Executors from the obligation of publishing Charitable Bequests in cases in which the amounts bequeathed were small, or where, in our judgment, special circumstances existed to justify exemption. Since the date of our last Report we have exercised this discretion in ninety-three cases with advantage. In the first place we have saved very small bequests from the cost of advertising, and in the second place we have secured the more important advantage of the bequests being paid promptly and in full, inasmuch as we have invariably annexed as a condition to exemption that receipts should be produced for inspection, showing payment of the full amounts to the parties competent to give legal discharges. In this way we have since the date of our last Report secured the payment of upwards of £1,105 in ninety-three cases, and in sums varying from £1 to £25. Experience had uniformly shown that bequests so small in amount had been, from the very fact of being small, those most frequently lost or withheld.

7. The payment of small bequests has been further secured by the provisions in the Acts of 1867 and 1871, which enables us to proceed in the Courts of the Recorder or of the Chairmen of Counties for sums not exceeding £20, or by summary petition in the Court of Chancery for the recovery of sums exceeding £20, but not exceeding £200. In two cases we have resorted to these rapid and inexpensive proceedings, with satisfactory results.

8. As a general rule, however, we are seldom compelled to actually institute such legal proceedings, the fact of our possessing the power usually inducing parties to yield. When complaints are made to us of the withholding of a Charitable Bequest, we direct our secretaries to communicate with the party complained against, and after investigation and correspondence the demand is generally paid in full; or, in cases of doubt, a compromise is arrived at with more satisfactory and advantageous results to the charity than would have been attained by litigation. This course has also assisted in economizing the expense of the department, as regards law costs.

9. As the trustees of charity funds become more generally acquainted with the facilities afforded to them of freeing themselves from responsibility and securing the safety of funds by transferring them to our custody, they apply more frequently to avail themselves of them. The applications to which we have acceded have been more numerous, and the amount of money has been larger during the past year than at any previous period. The total amount thus transferred or paid over to us has been £24,218 14s. 3d. Stock, and £6,450 13s. other securities, the particulars of which will be found in the schedule annexed to this Report.

10. In two instances we have availed ourselves of the power conferred on us by the Act of 1871, to apply to the Court of Chancery for a transfer to us of funds standing there impressed with a charitable trust, and remaining unapplied. At inconsiderable cost we obtained such orders, and we have succeeded in bringing the charities into operation for the purposes intended by the testator.

11. We intervened successfully in three cases in the Landed Estates Court, and were thus instrumental in protecting charges for charitable purposes, which might otherwise have been lost.

12. Under the 12th Section of the "Charitable Donations and Bequests Act (Ireland), 1871," we have been able to relieve trustees from liability in cases in which there was no person competent to give a legal discharge for money held by them for charitable purposes. Our acceptance of such a fund, and our receipt, operated as a full discharge to the trustees from all responsibility. This enables us to extricate a fund from difficulties, which might prevent its being applied to its proper objects, or might serve a reluctant trustee as an excuse for its non-application.

13. In two charities in which, as stated in our last Report, we certified to your Majesty's Attorney-General, under the 5th Section of the Act of 1867, as the cases appeared to us more properly to fall within the scope of his general jurisdiction than of ours, proceedings by ex officio information have been commenced by him, and are still pending.

14. Our further experience confirms the opinion formerly expressed by us as to the advantages derived from the enactments in the statutes of 1867 and 1871. They have tended largely to improve the law of charitable trusts in Ireland, and to render the discharge of the duties of charitable trustees comparatively easy. When difficulties arise they are enabled to resort to us for advice, which in every case indemnifies them—with our sanction they can compromise claims for or against charities—with our consent they can transfer money, stock, or other securities to our custody, and they can also assign to us annuities or rentcharges—they can receive our authority for granting long leases of charity property—they can improve lands held for charitable purposes, and in cases in which the original intentions of testators have become impracticable, in sums of limited amount, they can have schemes of administration framed by us. Previously to the passing of these statutes, relief in these matters could for the most part be obtained only by means of proceedings in equity, whereas it can now be obtained from us at little or no expense to the funds of Charities. There is scarcely a branch of our jurisdiction in any of the above cases that we have not in some form been called on to exercise since the date of our last Report. While, however, at all times willing to assist trustees in cases in which practical difficulties have arisen in the discharge of their duties, we have refused to direct them where the questions submitted for our decision were in our judgment of a nature to call for solemn determination by the Court of Chancery, or where our decision might operate to the disadvantage of parties not represented before us.

15. We annex to this our Report, in Schedule No. 2, a copy of the Abstract of our Accounts in the several charities under our administration, from 1st January, 1871, to 31st December last; the details of which with their vouchers having been lodged as usual with the Master in Chancery for examination and audit, have been examined and passed, and a declared copy lodged in the Privy Council Office, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Parliament.

16. The total amount of the trust funds which were under our care and control in cash, and vested in Government and other securities on the 31st December last, is set forth in the 3rd, 4th, and 5th Schedules, the particulars of which, together with the objects of each trust fund, will be found in Schedule No. 6.

17. The annual amount of rents and annuities under our guardianship at the same period specifying the particular amount of each, with the name of the Testator or Donor by whom created, the source from whence each is derived, and the object of each trust, is given in Schedule No. 8; and in Schedule No. 9 will be found a Return of Charity Funds standing to the credit of causes or matters in the Court of Chancery, in which the title of the Charity has been established by decree or order.

All which we submit as our Report to your Most Excellent Majesty, and in testimony thereof have caused our corporate seal to be hereto affixed, this 9th day of July, 1873.
